As a result, the model is able to capture the complex, non-linear relationships between the variables, which is a significant improvement over the linear model. The model's performance is evaluated using the coefficient of determination (R^2), which is a measure of the proportion of the variance in the dependent variable that is explained by the independent variables. The R^2 value for the non-linear model is 0.85, which is significantly higher than the R^2 value for the linear model (0.65). This indicates that the non-linear model is a better fit for the data and is able to explain a larger proportion of the variance in the dependent variable.
